INTRODUCTION

We present herewith volume No. LXXVII of the Norfolk and Portsmouth City Directory.

In this issue is included all of the newly annexed territory, as well as South Norfolk (which is in the Norfolk section) and that territory immediately surrounding the present boundaries of Norfolk and Portsmouth, which from a broad view is really a part of these cities.

This Directory is sub-divided as follows:

Buyers' Directory, pages 37 to 144, including the display advertisements of the cities' most representative and reliable business institutions and individuals. Reference to this section is invited for more complete details than those obtainable elsewhere in the Directory. Particular attention is called to the advertisements in this section and elsewhere throughout the Directory as deserving your confidence and patronage. One will notice that the publishers do not accept advertisements of any other kind. Over 90 per cent of the advertisers in the Directory renew their contracts year after year.

Classified Directory, Norfolk, beginning on page 1009, Portsmouth, 1355, showing full and only complete list of all individuals and firms in business in these cities classified appropriately.

Alphabetical Directory, Norfolk, beginning on page 145, Portsmouth on 1101, which lists every firm and private citizen with occupation and home address.

Street and Householders' Directory, Norfolk beginning on page 817, Portsmouth on 1287, gives a complete description of each street and also a complete list of the heads of families arranged numerically according to house numbers on streets arranged alphabetically. These features are invaluable to any City Directory.

POPULATION

U. S. Census, 1920—Norfolk.....	115,777
U. S. Census, 1920—South Norfolk.....	9,123
U. S. Census, 1920—Portsmouth....	54,387

As in former years, the canvass for names did not stop at the city limits proper, but was extended to include territory immediately adjacent, which to all intents and purposes is part of the greater city. There are 62,667 individual names in the Norfolk Directory, including those of South Norfolk. Using the multiple of $2\frac{1}{2}$ so as to include in the population married women and children not included in the list of names, the result is 156,667.

There are 22,082 individual names in the Portsmouth Directory. By the same calculations the result is 55,205.

Copies of the latest editions of Directories of other cities throughout the United States and Canada are on file in the Directory Library maintained at the Chamber of Commerce, thirteenth floor Bank of Commerce Building, where they are accessible for reference. A cordial invitation is extended to all subscribers to make frequent use of this library. Copies of this Directory are placed in Directory Libraries of all the principal cities where they serve to represent Norfolk and Portsmouth and its business interests.

The publishers wish to express their sincere thanks for the co-operation and assistance rendered them and their enumerators in compiling such a work as complicated as a City Directory.

NORFOLK, VIRGINIA

ON HAMPTON ROADS

Its Commerce, Industries, Business, Agriculture, Resorts and Government

BY NORFOLK-PORTSMOUTH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

IN THE CENTER of a territory richer in historic interest than any other section of the United States, Norfolk holds a commanding position as a great world port, an industrial city of rapidly increasing importance, and a resort center of nation-wide fame.

The site of the original town of Norfolk consisted of fifty acres, purchased by the General Assembly of the Virginia colony in 1682 for 10,000 pounds of tobacco, and the town was incorporated that it might be one of the stations where the weed could be received, stored and sold. Tobacco was then the coin of the colony. In striking contrast to this purchase price is the volume of tobacco passing through Norfolk in 1923, amounting to more than 200,000,000 pounds. And there is always in storage at the port for overseas shipment from 20,000 to 40,000 hogshead of this commodity.

Rubbing elbows in Norfolk are to be found the historic associations and the most modern exemplifications of commerce. At Cape Henry, where Captain John Smith and his intrepid band of colonists first touched American soil in 1607, is erected a tablet commemorating the event; and a stone's throw away steam shovels are scooping up the fine yellow sand for use in glass plants. One may stand beneath the century-old trees at the foot of Freemason street shading houses that are splendid examples of Georgian architecture and bear ships loading cargo from great concrete warehouses. So it is with the whole city. The historic is there in abundance, and it is treated with a reverence that is almost religious. But commerce and industry continue that progress which is causing all the Atlantic ports to look with keen interest towards Hampton Roads.

LOCATION

Norfolk is situated midway on the Atlantic coast between Boston and Jacksonville, eighteen miles from the Virginia Capes. To European, United Kingdom, Asiatic, Oriental, South American and West Coast ports Norfolk is, generally, 300 miles closer than Baltimore, while eight trunk line railroads connect the port with the North, Northwest, Middle West and South. The balmy climate permits of maximum movement of shipping the year round, as the harbor is entirely free of ice in the coldest winter months, and this same climate has been responsible for the development around Norfolk of the largest truck-growing section in the country.

A Bathing Scene at One of Norfolk's Beaches

The Norfolk-Portsmouth community has a metropolitan population of 300,000 people. Norfolk has a population of 164,403 within its city limits, while the population of Portsmouth is approximately 60,000. The business, industrial and commercial interests of Norfolk and Portsmouth are practically identical, and they enjoy the same splendid advantages of transportation, climate, resources, industrial sites, market accessibility and progressive spirit.

About 60 degrees is the average temperature for the year, with a mean temperature above 41 degrees for the coldest months, and below 79 degrees for the hottest.

Captain John Smith, writing shortly after the settlement of Jamestown, described the section around Norfolk in the following glowing terms.

"There is but one entrance into this country, and that is at the mouth of a goodly bay eighteen or twenty miles broad. Within is a country that may have the prerogatives over the most pleasant places known, for earth and heaven never agreed better to frame a place for man's habitation. The mildness of the air, the fertility of the soil and the situation of the rivers are so propitious to the use of man, as no place is more convenient for pleasure, profit, and man's sustenance under any latitude or climate. So then here is a place, a nurse for soldiers, a practice for mariners, a trade for merchants, a reward for the good."

GLORIOUS HISTORY

Hampton Roads has been the rendezvous for the American navy ever since there was one. In the early part of 1917, when the newspapers were referring to the American fleet as "swallowed up somewhere in the mists of the Atlantic," it had secretly slipped out of the harbor of Hampton Roads and was resting at Yorktown, a few miles up Chesapeake Bay, awaiting Orders. Through Hampton Roads during the World War thousands of men, countless shiploads of horses, food, and munitions and swift fleets of destroyers passed out to the aid of the Allies.

After landing at Cape Henry in 1607, Captain John Smith and his party passed on to Jamestown, there to lay the foundation for the Anglo-Saxon predominance of North America. Later, in 1691, a lighthouse was erected at Cape Henry on the site of Smith's landing, and it is standing to-day. But John Smith's party was not the first to visit Norfolk. The first white men to visit the spot were members of a small exploring party sent out from Sir Walter Raleigh's ill-fated Roanoke Island settlement in 1586.

OLD POINT COMFORT

At Old Point Comfort, so named by Captain John Smith, is Fort Monroe, where Jefferson Davis was confined for a time at the close of the Civil War. And just off the fort is the place where those historic ironclads, the Monitor and the Merrimac, revolutionized naval warfare in their bitter duel. In Norfolk's inner harbor is old Fort Norfolk, of the War of 1812, and within the city itself, as well as in Portsmouth, Newport News and Hampton and other Hampton Roads cities, are to be found buildings, monuments and associations that link to-day with yesterday, giving an opportunity to view the past with the eyes of the present.

While there is no city in the United States which holds such a wealth of historic interest as does Norfolk, it is not possible in this brief sketch to give even the high lights of the history. Such an account should tell of the defeat of Lord Dunmore's troops in the battle of The Great Bridge, just a few miles away, in 1775. It should describe the bombardment and burning of the city by Lord Dunmore's ships in 1776, and many other instances of intense interest during the Revolution and the War of 1812. It should not neglect the details of the respuise of the ironclad "Monitor" by the first ironclad ever built and the Confederate battleship "Virginia." Most of these facts, however, can be found in any complete and unbiased history of the United States.

While Commodore Matthew Fontaine Maury may be said to have discovered Hampton Roads, the great harbor of Norfolk and Portsmouth, commercially the country's greatest natural port, was playing a prominent part in the history of America long before "The Pathfinder of the Seas" put it on the map.

Even before the war of the Revolution the British had recognized the availability of the Elizabeth River as a naval base, and Gosport Navy Yard, now Norfolk Navy Yard, at Portsmouth, was built for the accommodation of British warships stationed to "protect," if not to coerce, the colonies.

The surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown, while not on a tributary of Hampton Roads, was sufficiently close for the French fleet to base on Hampton Roads and prevent the British squadrons from going to the relief of His Lordship and his army in their final stand.

Had the American navy been based in Hampton Roads, and the Virginia Capes properly fortified in 1812, a comparatively small naval force would have been able to prevent the British fleet from passing up Chesapeake Bay and sacking the national capital.

But that experience taught the United States a lesson and soon after the Treaty of Ghent was signed, preparations were made for utilizing the great natural waterway as a naval base.

NAVY YARD

By the time the clouds of the War Between the States were gathering, the Gosport (now the Norfolk) Navy Yard, at Portsmouth, was a bee-hive of activity, and when Governor Wise ordered the Virginia troops to seize the station, the Federal Government recognized its material and strategic importance to the South. The attempt to burn the navy yard was foiled through the protests of the citizens of Portsmouth, although it was damaged considerably before the Union forces evacuated it.

In the hands of the Confederate troops, the navy yard played an important part in the early days of the war, and had the South been able to hold Hampton Roads as a base, some historians believe that the conflict would have been brought to a speedy and different conclusion long before 1865.

Hampton Roads will go down in history as the scene of the battle between the Confederate ironclad Merrimac (Virginia) and the United States cheese-box Monitor.

It was after the War Between the States that the United States again realized more fully than ever the strategic value of Hampton Roads, and the development of what was soon named the Norfolk Navy Yard followed.

By the time of the Spanish-American War the port was the rendezvous for the Atlantic fleet, and the naval force which whipped the Spaniards off Santiago was outfitted largely at the navy yard. A number of the warships which participated in the battle had been built at the navy yard and at the plant of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, which had been established only a few years before.

And naval authorities will tell to-day that the men-o'-war which have glided into the waters of the James and the Elizabeth rivers have had no superiors in the fighting craft of their time.

EFFECT OF WORLD WAR

But it was not until the European War came on that Hampton Roads gained its world-wide prominence as a base of supplies for military and naval forces. The dream of Maury came true, for in the early stages of the conflict—long before America became involved—the armies of the world were turning their eyes toward Hampton Roads. Not only the Allies looked to Hampton Roads to supply their millions of fighting men with food, equipment, and almost everything, but the German submarine which ran the gauntlet of the British blockade sought Hampton Roads as its landing place.

The strategians of the American army and navy, long before the general public had an inkling that the country was preparing to enter the war, had picked Hampton Roads as the logical base for naval activity and for the dispatch of troops and food-stuffs and ammunition and practically everything that should be needed by the American troops who should be sent to European battlefields. Almost overnight there sprang up on the shores of Hampton Roads the organization which manned the port of embarkation at Newport News and the Hampton Roads operating base on the Norfolk side, from which were dispatched the convoys, both American and Allied, which turned the tide against the German hosts.

Then came the army base development near Sewell's Point which, although not completed in time to play such a prominent part in the conflict, nevertheless contributed its share in bringing troops and surplus supplies back from across the Atlantic.

Disarmament agreements, or rather limitation of armaments, naturally have affected Hampton Roads as a naval and military base, but her record stands unsurpassed whenever the country has faced a crisis. And unless some political upheaval should overturn the policy of the government, Hampton Roads will continue as the greatest naval base on the Atlantic coast, for, as Secretary of the Navy Denby remarked not long ago on boarding a transport en route to Japan: "You have about all the naval activity on the coast concentrated here."

By way of parenthesis it may be remarked that the millions the government has spent in naval and military development of Hampton Roads shall not be lost, for swords, so to speak, are being beaten into plowshares by the utilization of the army base for commercial purposes as a municipal terminal for the city of Norfolk, and the great shipyard at Newport News for building merchant vessels, for car repairing, and other commercial work.

COMMERCIAL DEVELOPMENT

Back in the early part of the nineteenth century, when the Yankee clippers sailed the Seven Seas and won for America the maritime supremacy of the world, Norfolk was one of the best known ports of the globe. Hordes of white-winged ships carried cotton and tobacco from the port and brought back the products of every clime. "The river could not be seen, so thick was the shipping between the Norfolk and Portsmouth shores," writes a historian of that period.

Then came the gradual disappearance of the Stars and Stripes from the ocean, and with this disappearance a sharp decline in Norfolk's port activity. But the conditions that brought the clipper ships to Norfolk remained unchanged and when the World War came, with its demand upon the United States for food, clothing, munitions, horses, machinery and the thousand-odd things necessary in the prosecution of a war, Norfolk and Hampton Roads became the greatest gateway for this movement.

The war movement demonstrated one thing which is true to a greater extent to-day than it was at the height of the war—export and import traffic can be handled through the port more cheaply than anywhere else on the Atlantic Seaboard. This is no idle claim of enthusiastic port boosters. Records of the War Department and the Navy Department bear eloquent testimony to it. Unlimited fuel, miles of anchorage, well-equipped piers, physical connection between every railroad entering the port, shipside delivery of cargo and elimination of barging are among the things that have cut down the port costs. Ships get dispatch, and it is dispatch that counts more than any other factor in the reduction of ocean transportation costs.

Even as Jersey and Hoboken cannot be separated from the port of New York, so are Norfolk, Portsmouth and Newport News, all using a common harbor, inseparable as the port of Hampton Roads. For all practical purposes, except for the fact that they are separated by water, they constitute a single commercial gateway.

Loading Lard for Export

Complete co-ordination of rail and water transportation facilities, that dream of every foreign trade gateway on the globe, is a reality at Norfolk. And this co-ordination has been the foundation of a remarkable romance in port building, a new chapter of which is being written every year. For instance, since 1914 the value of exports through Norfolk has increased 900 per cent. The number of general cargo sailings has increased proportionately. Imports have increased 400 per cent, and the volume of the various commodities has grown in proportion. In the last two years the variety of commodities handled in foreign trade has increased 300 per cent. And so on down a long list of increases in volumes and in every phase of port service.

Co-ordinated facilities tell the story. It is such facilities that made possible the ideal interchange situation at the Norfolk Municipal Union Terminal and the Municipal Grain Elevator.

How was this unification of transportation facilities possible? Well, there's still another story, another romance of American transportation. It was the Norfolk and Portsmouth Belt Line Railway that did it. This belt line, which completely encircles the cities of Norfolk and Portsmouth, and has its Norfolk terminal at the Municipal Union Terminal and the Municipal Grain Elevator, is owned jointly by the port's eight trunk line railroads. It was created primarily to facilitate interchange of freight between the various rail lines and to provide belt line facilities for industries, but it was destined for a bigger future—a future which has many chapters of development ahead.

Operating direct to the piers of the Municipal Terminal and the grain elevator, the belt line brings to ship-side at these points every railroad entering the port. The result is direct handling between car and ship and the elimination of barging. New standards in port terminal handling have been set by this condition, and the maximum of dispatch for export and import tonnage has been made possible.

During the World War the United States Government built a great army base terminal here at a cost of $29,000,000. When this terminal had served the purposes of the army, it was taken over by the city of Norfolk in 1919 under a lease arrangement. Since that time it has been operated as a Municipal Union Terminal by the city, under the administration of the Norfolk Port Commission. This port commission is composed of nine business men who serve without salary. Among them are men with wide experience in finance, foreign trade, traffic and general port development work. The actual operation of the terminals and solicitation of traffic is in hands of the Port Director, who reports to the Port Commission. The commission is selected by the City Council without regard to politics, and the commission reports to the council.

Operation of the Municipal Terminal demonstrated very quickly the necessity for grain tonnage to provide better balanced cargoes. No sooner was this need felt than the Port Commission launched its plans for a municipal elevator. The history of this elevator, in the few months since it was completed in the spring of 1923, demonstrates conclusively the soundness of the theory that commerce follows facilities and adequate port service. The elevator and a pier adjacent thereto represent an expenditure of $5,000,000. This $5,000,000 was provided by a bond issue, authorized by the electorate, and the fact that the vote was six to one in favor of the issue demonstrates eloquently the sentiment existing in Norfolk for municipal participation in port development work.

The municipal elevator, which has a storage capacity of 800,000 bushels and a workhouse capable of taking care of several times that amount of storage, represents the very last work in modern grain elevator construction. It is a reinforced concrete structure, in which every possible time and labor-saving device and safety appliance have been provided, with the result that a reputation for unusual dispatch for grain cargoes is being built up. As rapidly as increased business demands, the policy of the Port Commission is to increase the storage capacity of the elevator by the construction of additional bins.

The new pier adjacent to the elevator, equipped with transit sheds and with railroad tracks on both aprons, and in the center of the sheds, was completed last year and is now in use. The pier provides more than half a million square feet of storage and handling space.

One of the most interesting features of the Municipal Terminal is its flexible storage. The eight great warehouses, all on one level, have a combined storage capacity of 2,105,600 square feet, while the two piers, which are 1,328 feet long and 300 feet wide, have a total warehouse area of 743,300 square feet. It is this extensive storage which has been one of the biggest factors in making Norfolk America's first tobacco port. This port handles more than half of the leaf tobacco exports of this country. Its annual exports of more than 200,000,000 pounds represent an increase of 2,000 per cent since 1918.

The eight Norfolk railroads own and operate twenty-eight covered piers and five open piers, with a total covered warehouse space of about 2,000,000 square feet.

Among the private piers and warehouses in the Norfolk harbor are eleven covered piers and two open piers, with a total warehouse space of 1,036,000 square feet.

FIRST COAL PORT

Hampton Roads, made up of the ports of Norfolk, Portsmouth and Newport News, is the greatest coaling port in the world. The three coal terminals,

A Norfolk Power Plant

the Norfolk and Western, and the Virginian Railway at Norfolk, and the Chesapeake and Ohio at Newport News, have combined dumping capacity of 275,000 tons daily, and the average annual quantity handled through these terminals is 16,000,000 tons, of which about two-thirds passes through the Norfolk terminals. The 1924 total was 16,409,478 tons, of which 4,730,732 passed through Newport News.

Norfolk exports for the year of 1924 were valued at $132,531,792, and her imports at $10,162,301. This represents an increase of 10 per cent in imports.

General cargo sailings, cargo tonnage, coal, grain, cotton, lumber, tobacco and other commodities showed substantial gains in 1924 as compared with 1923.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, Norfolk was the second Atlantic port in volume of tonnage and eleventh in value of cargoes, as shown by figures of the United States Department of Commerce. For that period the port's total exports were valued at $135,331,451.

The most striking thing about Norfolk, however, is that, enormous as its present industrial and commercial activities are, there is still unlimited room for additional port facilities, and for her industrial enterprises of many ports.

This year the new assembling and exporting plant of the Ford Motor Company began operation. This plant will maintain a force of 1,500 employees and turn out 90,000 automobiles annually for export and domestic distribution. The plant, at present situated at Newton Park, on the eastern branch of the Elizabeth River, represents an investment of more than $2,000,000, and plans are under consideration now for additional units which will probably cost as much more.

The Virginia Portland Cement Corporation, a subsidiary of the International Cement Corporation, began construction during the fall of 1924 of a cement manufacturing, distributing and exporting plant that represents a capital outlay of $2,000,000 and which will eventually develop into an even greater capital development. This plant will be ready for operation, employing several hundred men, by the end of 1925.

The Virginian Railroad completed during 1924 construction of its second big coaling terminal, costing approximately $2,225,000, and with a capacity of approximately 75,000 tons of coal per day, more than doubling the former coal-handling facilities of the railroad at Norfolk.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has been planning for several years and probably will begin the construction of during the present year a new terminal project at Little Creek, in the lower Chesapeake Bay, between Ocean View and Lynnhaven Inlet. The Pennsylvania has already invested hundreds of dollars in the purchase of property for this terminal project, which will cost when completed $7,000,000 and which will greatly facilitate the handling of both freight and passenger traffic between Pennsylvania's present rail line terminus at Cape Charles and its true terminus at Norfolk. When this project is completed it will enable the Pennsylvanian to operate huge passenger train ferries across lower Chesapeake Bay, place their trains back on the rails at Little Creek, and bring them direct to Norfolk at a considerable saving in time and expense over the present system of ferrying passengers on passenger steamers between Cape Charles and the downtown terminal at Norfolk, it will also provide a quicker and more economical arrangement for transporting freight car floats between Cape Charles and Norfolk.

Norfolk is also the world's greatest distributing point for truck crops, which are produced on the fertile farms in Norfolk, Princess Anne, Isle of Wight and Nansemond counties, as well as in the Mathews and Gloucester sections, and even in eastern North Carolina. Of the purely local truck crops handled here in ever-increasing quantity, the annual movement amounted to about 850,000 bags.

Already the world's fourth cotton port, Norfolk is making rapid strides for a still higher rating. In 1924 394,382 bales were handled through this port, of which 204,083 were exported.

FIRST TOBACCO PORT

Norfolk's recent attainment to the rank of the first tobacco export port in America is important. Norfolk's earliest exports included tobacco as one of the most important articles of commerce. The very earliest vessels sailing out of Norfolk for ports of England carried huge casks and hogsheads of tobacco. For a number of years most of the tobacco shipped from the colonies went through the port of Norfolk.

NORFOLK'S CITY GOVERNMENT

No city can be better, fundamentally, than its government. Having given Commission-Manager government the most exacting test possible, Norfolk is to-day more than willing to be judged by its method of administering city business.

Commission-Manager government, as it operates in Norfolk, has made a conspicuous success, because it puts community welfare above politics, business methods and practices above "expediency."

For 182 years prior to September 1, 1918, Norfolk struggled with the old council-mayor form of government in its various adaptations. During this period bi-cameral government managed to exhibit all of its undesirable features and practically no advantages. The mayor has just enough power to further tangle with snarls that the double-barreled council generally managed to get the city's affairs into, and a bad situation was further complicated by the Board of Control, similar to the Administrative Board of some cities.

September 1, 1918, marked the beginning of a new era in community development for Norfolk. On that date Commission-Manager government was inaugurated, with a council of five members, elected from the city at large. Charles E. Ashburner, former city manager of Springfield, O., was selected for city manager out of the large number of highly trained men considered for the office.

From the very beginning there was no basis

Coal for Export—N. & W. Terminal

for comparison between the old form of government and the new. It was a case of contrasts in every detail.

Action as contrasted with delay.

Results as opposed to haphazard methods.

A comprehensive, logical, continuous correlated plan of community development and public improvements vastly different from the old-time policy of ward and precinct "trading" for segregated and unrelated improvements.

These are some of the outstanding differences between the old plan and the new.

But the real story is best told by the things that can be seen and participated in by every citizen, investor and visitor—miles of splendidly paved streets, parks, playgrounds, splendid schools, one of the country's finest water supplies, new city market, a model municipal union terminal for the handling of ocean commerce, a municipal grain elevator of the most modern type, better sanitation, and a great number of other improvements that have been the direct result of Norfolk's present form of government.

HOW PLAN OPERATES

The Commission-Manager plan as it operates in Norfolk is simple in the extreme.

A council of five members is elected from the city at large. One member is selected as chairman and ex-officio mayor by vote of the council. The chairman has no power of veto, however, his duties as mayor being confined chiefly to acting as spokesman for the city government.

The city manager is appointed by the council, at a salary fixed by council.

Every distinct branch of the government is organized into a department, with a director in charge, who is answerable to the city manager for the operation of his department. The city manager is in turn responsible to the council. Concentration of responsibility is thus accomplished in the simplest and most effective manner.

The departments are as follows: Department of Finance, Department of Law, Department of Public Welfare, Department of Public Safety, Department of Public Works.

All matters of municipal accounting, financing, collection of taxes, sinking fund, marketing of bonds and other financial details are handled by the Department of Finance.

The City Attorney is the head of the Department of Law, and this well-organized and splendidly equipped bureau passes upon and handles all of the city's legal problems.

All matters pertaining to the health of the city come under the Director of Public Welfare, such as medical inspection, sanitation, quarantine, parks, playgrounds, cemeteries, birth and death registration, milk, food and restaurant inspection and similar matters.

The Department of Public Safety comprises the police and fire departments, with building and fire inspection and fire and crime prevention activities.

All matters pertaining to the maintenance and operation of municipally-owned utilities, public buildings, construction, engineering and planning are handled by the Department of Public Works.

There are also the city clerk and a city purchasing agent, who makes purchases for all departments; School Board, Civil Service Commission, Port Commission, City Planning Commission and the following courts: Court of Law and Chancery, Circuit Court, Corporation (criminal) Court, Police Court, Civil Court, Commonwealth's Attorney (prosecutor) and public defender.

DELAYS ELIMINATED

Under the old form of government there was a favorite indoor pastime entitled "laying it on the table." Many highly constructive propositions died a quick and comparatively painless death on this same table. To-day the reverse is true. The council of five meets around a table with the city manager at least once a week, sometimes several times a week, when necessary, just as would the directors and general manager of a corporation. When a matter comes up it is either disposed of at once or referred to the city manager for investigation and a later report. The city has learned the business that delays are expensive and has reduced such expense to a minimum.

The ideal government is the one that gives first consideration to the highest possible improvement of living conditions. This has been easily the outstanding feature of Norfolk's present form of government, on the theory that the real test of a worthwhile city is whether it is a good place in which to live.

Despite the large amounts expended for public improvements of various kinds, Norfolk's credit is to-day better than at any previous time in its history, and its securities are being marketed at a premium, on a very low interest basis. Here again is unmistakable evidence of the benefits accruing from the application of strict business methods to municipal government. A scientific sinking fund plan is taking care of all bond issues as they mature, and the city is in every respect on a firm financial basis.

Few cities in the country have such a progressive educational policy as that developed by Norfolk since 1918. In four years under Commission-Manager government the city's expenditures for new school buildings have aggregated nearly $3,000,000, and more than a half million dollars has been added to teachers' salaries. Among the new buildings are two junior high schools, each costing more than half million dollars, and a new industrial high school for negro students, also costing more than half a million dollars. The expenditures quoted above do not include the outlay for many new playgrounds in the vicinity of the various schools.

WATER SUPPLY

For about fifty years the old form of government discussed the need for a larger water supply. One commission after another investigated, employed engineers, and presented reports which died "on the table." It only required a short time, however, for the new government to submit a bond issue to the people, build a new plant at a new source of supply, and connect the city with sufficient water for a city of a million people, with a capacity for development to an almost unlimited degree. The cost of the new system was approximately $5,000,000. One of the conspicuous effects of this development has been the creation of a much more advantageous industrial condition.

Marked increase in efficiency, morale and personnel has characterized the police and fire departments under Commission-Manager government. The number of men in each department has been greatly augmented from time to time and equipment vastly improved, in addition to substantial increases in rates of compensation. Norfolk's fire department during the last decade has completely changed from horse-drawn to motor-driven apparatus.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS

The Municipal Market was completed the latter part of 1923 at a cost of $500,000. This is probably the finest city market in the United States.

Among miscellaneous improvements, the new government has laid new paving on over twenty miles of streets, has built about fifty miles of new water mains and ten miles of new sewers and has installed several hundred new street lights, in addition to improving the lighting systems on all the principal streets.

When the new form of government was instituted it found Norfolk with a little over seven square miles of land area, densely populated. Splendidly developed suburbs were on every side, but the city councils had never felt like facing the problem of an annexation plan which gave the city a total area of thirty miles and increased its population nearly 35,000. Planning and zoning experts are now working out an intelligent scheme for the protection of the city's development for many years to come.

FINANCES

New enterprises, millions of dollars in new buildings, and big increases in property values under the new form of government, with the very recent annexations, have more than doubled the revenues of the city. For instance, in 1918 the city had about two and one-half million dollars available. This has increased steadily until the 1924 budget provides for an expenditure of about $6,000,000.

The whole story can be told in a sentence—Commission-Manager government has made good because it has built a better city in which to live—and, if repetition may be pardoned, because the tax-payer has for the first time been given a dollar's worth of value for every dollar spent.

VARIED RESOURCES

Nature did not stop with the presentation of one of the world's finest harbors to the city. The admirable climate of this section has made possible the production of every kind of food commodity, and as a result delicacies for which other sections pay high prices are easily within reach of the purse of the humblest citizen of Norfolk. Luscious wild fowl, succulent oysters, abundance of crabs, clams and fish, and Princess Anne turkeys have spread the fame of Norfolk throughout the United States and even to foreign countries.

Radiating from Norfolk to the agricultural districts, industrial centers and mines of the North, West and South are eight great railroad systems, while the port is served by forty-five general cargo steamship lines carrying coal cargoes. Coastwise steamers connect the port with New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Providence, as well as Pacific coast ports, while splendid steamers of two lines make daily runs to Baltimore, and another similar line operates daily to Washington, D. C. Numerous river and bay lines carry freight to and from points on the James River, Chesapeake Bay and Eastern North Carolina.

It is these transportation facilities which make Norfolk such a highly desirable point for the location of industries, agricultural enterprises, and almost any other type of business. Hampton Roads is not only the gateway of Virginia, but of many States east of the Mississippi River, and as the traffic increases the railroads serving the port are steadily extending their facilities. For instance, the Virginian Railway is now spending about three million dollars in pier and terminal improvements; the Norfolk and Western Railway, about one million five hundred thousand dollars.

The Norfolk-Portsmouth community has many important industries of a diversified nature, the industrial investment, exclusive of government operations, amounting to about $75,000,000. Fertilizer, lumber, peanuts, vegetable oils, cotton products, paper boxes, wood products, truck packages, coal briquettes, glass, canning, and many other industries are to be found here, most of them located on the belt line railroad, which completely encircles Norfolk and Portsmouth. It is this same belt line which makes this section so desirable from an industrial standpoint, as it causes all the port's railroads to operate as a unit for purposes of delivery of freight.

SUMMARY OF ADVANTAGES

A brief summary of some of the things that are attracting nation-wide and world-wide attention to Norfolk will give an idea of the conditions that have ushered in Norfolk's new progress. Most of these things have been referred to above and are only reiterated because of the vital part they are playing in the period of development the city has just entered.

Norfolk is the world's greatest coaling port.

Norfolk is the second port in the United States in water-borne tonnage.

Norfolk is the fourth cotton port.

Norfolk is the greatest peanut port.

Norfolk is America's greatest center for naval

In the Strawberry Fields of Tidewater Virginia

activity—government expenditures in past years, $129,955,905.

Norfolk is one of the greatest fertilizer manufacturing centers.

Norfolk is the greatest truck-producing center.

Norfolk is on Hampton Roads, the finest natural harbor.

Norfolk has eight great railroads, forty-five general cargo steamship lines, twenty coal cargo lines, and many inland and coastwise steamer lines.

Norfolk is one of the greatest sea food shipping points.

Norfolk has two of the country's finest bathing beaches.

Norfolk has many miles of splendidly paved streets.

Norfolk has just completed one of the finest water systems in the country.

Norfolk has an abundance of coal for industrial purposes and an ample supply of electric power at attractive rates.

Norfolk has a climate that permits of outdoor work the year round.

These are by no means all of Norfolk's advantages, but the things enumerated give in concise form many of the outstanding ones.

INDUSTRIAL

The approximate moneys invested in private manufacturing enterprises in the Norfolk-Portsmouth community total about $85,000,000.

Steam coal, mined in the New River and Pocahontas coal fields immediately available to Norfolk, is higher in desirable qualities than any other mined in the country. The supply of this coal is abundant and can be laid down at Norfolk at a freight rate advantageous to the consumer. These coal regions are on the rails of transportation lines running directly to Norfolk, assuring the consumer best possible delivery.

Electric power to large consumers can be had as low as eight mills per KWH. Gas and water are good and can be had at reasonable rates.

Labor, under normal conditions, is plentiful, both skilled and common. It is estimated that about 55,000 workers here earn upwards of $47,000,000 per annum.

Some of the principal industries are as follows:

Shipbuilding.
Railroad shops.
Machine shops.
Iron and steel.
Fertilizer.
Lumber.
Shipping cases.
Veneers.
Silk mills.
Peanut cleaning.
Copper smelting.
Creosoting.
Cotton mills.

Cotton tie and bagging.
Sewing industries.
Coal briquettes.

Paper boxes.
Farm machinery.
Tobacco manufacturing.
Knitting mills.
Veneer mills.
Bakeries.
Agriculture.
Sea foods.
Government operations.
Oil, Cargo and bunker coal.

OVERSEAS STEAMSHIP SERVICE

Prior to the war there were but few overseas services for the carriage of general cargo from Hampton Roads. Subsequent to the war, however, with the establishment of United States Shipping Board services added to that maintained by foreign flag companies, Hampton Roads has been enabled to take her place with the other North Atlantic ports as a general cargo port.

A bulletin, listing overseas steamship services scheduled from Hampton Roads, issued semi-monthly by the Hampton Roads Maritime Exchange, the Norfolk Port Commission, and other agencies, and given wide distribution among shipping and trading interests throughout the United States by the Port Commission of Norfolk, Va., the several railroads and freight forwarders, shows a representative number of steamers announced to sail to all principal foreign ports and countries of the world. Among these services are the following:

Norfolk to United Kingdom:

S. Sgitcovich & Co. (Liverpool).

Atlantic Transport Line (London).

Baltimore Steamship Lines.

Blake Lines.

Bristol City Line (Bristol).

Donaldson Line.

Johnson Line.

Virginia Service.

MUNICIPAL TERMINALS AT NORFOLK

The city of Norfolk has under lease from the War Department one pier and about one-half of the covered warehouse space at the Army Supply Base, used as municipal terminals.

The municipal terminals are so connected by the Norfolk and Portsmouth Belt Line that they are really union terminals, in that arrangements are in effect whereby all freight, when properly routed, coming into Norfolk for export, or in moving out from these terminals, may be handled on the one bill of lading, the switching charge via the Belt Line being absorbed in the Norfolk rate.

The Norfolk and Portsmouth Belt Line is the connecting link between the municipal terminals and the eight trunk line railroads which enter Norfolk.

The frontage along Hampton Roads has been improved with two modern piers of reinforced concrete and steel construction, each of which are 1,328 feet long and 300 feet wide, with berthing space alongside of a depth of thirty-five feet. The following briefly describes the facilities offered by these terminals:

- Two piers.
- Shed length, 1,280 feet.
- Shed width, 257 feet.
- One double-decked pier length upper floor 500 feet, elevators and runways.
- Three depressed tracks length of shed.
- Length concrete quays adjoining piers, 3,063 feet.
- Automatic Sprinkler system.
- Space on both piers, 796,800 square feet.

Space in both pier sheds, 749,300 square feet.
 Warehouses—Adjacent to the piers are eight (8) immense warehouses identified by numbers one to eight, each about one-third of a mile long. These warehouses are sub-divided into bays at 140 feet distance by fire walls; served by depressed tracks, concrete aprons, floors and basins, and with the following features:
 The eight warehouses have ninety-four bays.
 Space in each bay, 22,400 square feet.
 Total space of warehouses, 2,105,600 square feet.
 Each warehouse has covered platform width twenty feet.
 Automatic sprinkler system.
 Adequately lighted and ventilated.
 Two of these warehouses are heated.
 Additional warehouses are under construction.
 Handling Equipment—Tractors, trailers, conveyors (electric and gravity), tiering and lifting devices, locomotive and mobile cranes, gantry cranes, cargo masts, electric and steam winches, portable scales are some of the facilities at this terminal designed to expedite the handling of export and import traffic and to minimize costs.
 Open Storage—To the extent of fifty acres; all space macadamized and sub-drained; area is traversed by six parallel tracks and seven concrete roadways interspersing and paralleling tracks. Space between roadways and tracks, fifty-eight feet wide.

Additional space available for extensive development.

NORFOLK MUNICIPAL GRAIN ELEVATOR

The Norfolk municipal grain elevator was placed in operation January 2, 1923. The elevator is of concrete construction throughout and electrically operated. Being the latest sea-board export elevator constructed, it has all the latest improvements which have been devised for the rapid and economical handling of grain.

The storage capacity is 800,000 bushels, of which 250,000 bushels capacity is in the workhouse and the balance in the storage annex. There are two receiving legs and three shipping legs of 30,000 bushels per hour capacity each, the largest which have ever been placed in an elevator. The two receiving legs can be used for shipping when desired, giving a total elevating capacity of 150,000 bushels an hour. The workhouse is designed to permit the accommodation of future storage bins to the extent of 1,000,000 bushels additional storage capacity.

There are eight unloading pits, each equipped with power shovels and pneumatic grain door removers, which materially speed up the rate of unloading. The tracks serving the unloading pits will hold eighty cars.

The elevator is served by a concrete wharf 1,400 feet long, which will accommodate three vessels. The slip and approach channel is dredged to thirty-five feet depth.

COAL FACILITIES

The facilities afforded at this port for the transshipment of both cargo and bunker coal are unexcelled at any port in the United States. Three great coal-carrying railroads—the Norfolk and Western, Virginian, and Chesapeake and Ohio—touching the heart of the great Pocahontas and New River districts, have their tidewater terminal at Hampton Roads, and here the most modern, electrically-operated piers have been constructed and equipped with the latest improved handling devices, insuring the greatest dispatch to vessels.

Present Facilities

	Number of Piers	Capacity Per Day Tons	Depth of Water at Piers Feet
Norfolk & Western..	3	100,000	35
Virginian.....	2	125,000	35
Chesapeake & Ohio.	2	50,000	35
Totals.....	7	275,000

Norfolk and Western—The piers of this company at Lambert's Point will accommodate twelve (12) ocean-going steamships, in addition to a number of small vessels, schooners, tugs, barges, etc. Certain improvements are now under way and when completed the dumping capacity of these piers will be increased about 50 per cent.

Virginian Railway—The terminals of this company, located at Sewell's Point, are electrically operated and have berthing space for four (4) ocean-going steamships. This company now has an additional modern steel electrically operated coal pier, which has a dumping capacity of 2,700 tons per hour and was completed during 1924 at a cost of approximately $3,000,000.00.

Chesapeake and Ohio Railway—The piers of this company at Newport News will accommodate six (6) ocean-going steamships and in addition four (4) bunker vessels at one and the same time.

FUEL OIL FACILITIES

Standard Oil Company

This station, belonging to the Standard Oil Company (N. J.), is situated on the eastern coast of Hampton Roads, between the U. S. Army and Naval Bases, at Sewell's Point, near Norfolk, Va. It was established in May, 1918, on a thirty-five-acre tract with a water frontage of 758 feet. During 1920 bulkhead was constructed across the property 1,300 feet off shore. This enclosure is being filled in by suction dredges and will make twenty-five acres additional. The tract formerly owned and operated by the American Chain Company, consisting of fifty-five acres of high and forty acres of low land fronting 1,340 feet on Hampton Roads, was acquired by the Standard Oil Company in 1920, making a grand total of 155 acres now contained in this admirably located station. Being one of the newest plants of the Standard Oil Company (N. J.), this station is, of course, equipped with the most modern methods for storing and handling oils. On the tract are located thirteen tanks with a total capacity of 420,500 barrels, for the storage of fuel oil, refined oil, gasoline and gas oil. Spur tracks run into the property, on which are located racks where thirty-six tank cars can be loaded simultaneously. These cars are moved daily by the Norfolk and Portsmouth Belt Line, which connects with all of the local railroads and permits direct routing to their destination. A thoroughly modern pier is now being used for receiving and delivering the company's products by water. This pier is 1,300 feet long, 800 feet is constructed of creosoted timber, with a thirty-foot channel on either side, and 500 feet of steel and concrete, with a thirty-five foot channel. Four ships and two barges can discharge or receive oil at this pier simultaneously. The pier is equipped with sixteen pipe lines, varying in size from four to twelve inches, and capable of receiving or delivering 252,000 gallons of oil per hour. Steam lines are on the pier for supplying steam to ships when needed. The pier and plant are equipped with the most modern fire-fighting apparatus, consisting of foamite and high pressure salt water lines.

Direct Produce from Tidewater Virginia Loading on Steamers for the New York Market

The Texas Company

Construction work on the Norfolk terminal of the Texas Company was started in 1909. Work at that time consisted of erection of one 50,000-barrel tank and four 10,000-barrel tanks; also a number of small tanks and one frame building.

Operation of the plant was started with a force of about twenty-five men. Since that time constant expansion and additions to the plant have been under way until it now covers approximately fifty acres of land, although the company owns about 150 acres of land, part of which is undeveloped. The plant is located at the crossing of the Virginian Railway over the southern branch of the Elizabeth River.

The tankage now consists of a total capacity of approximately 700,000 barrels, including storage for lubricating oils, kerosene, gasoline, gas oils, fuel oils, asphalts and other petroleum products.

Among the improvements are a complete asphalt refinery, a large modern four-story fire-proof compounding and cooperage plant for lubricating oils, machine shop, warehouse, car shop, office and other permanent structures.

This terminal is the main distributing point for the States of Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina and now employs about 250 men.

Supplies are brought in by tank ships from the company's Texas refineries at Port Arthur and Port Neches, Texas.

This company also has under lease the Government (Shipping Board) fuel oil station at Craney Island. This station comprises twenty (20) 65,000-barrel tanks, with adequate pumping facilities and docking space. Deliveries are made direct to steamers in deep water berths alongside wharf in Hampton Roads by lighters.

The Texas Company owns and operates a fleet of twenty tank steamers, with an average capacity of 65,000 barrels each, and in addition a fleet of smaller steamers and barges for river and harbor deliveries.

Mexican Petroleum Corporation

The plant of the Mexican Petroleum Corporation is located on the southern branch of the Elizabeth River, just above the Belt Line bridge. This company came to Norfolk in 1917 and purchased the site of land where now located, containing eighty (80) acres. Construction of four tanks was begun, one of 38,000 barrels, one of 35,000 barrels, and two of 55,000 barrels capacity. These tanks were completed in 1920, and in 1922 four additional 55,000-barrel tanks were erected, giving a total tank capacity of 403,000 barrels.

In addition to these facilities, this company has constructed a wharf 450 feet long, with a depth of water of twenty-five feet alongside where deliveries of fuel oil may be made. It also has floating equipment for making deliveries in the harbor consisting of 7,500-barrel barges fully equipped with pumps, hose, etc.

Deliveries are also made by railroad tank cars, twenty of which are in service at the present time.

Power of Advertising

The City Directory is the power that generates information for the buyer that he may know who deals in the product he wishes to purchase.

If your business is not classified properly and a display advertisement arranged to describe your business, how can you expect the buyer to trade with you?

Advertising is the foundation upon which successful businesses are built. You must apply this to your own particular business.

Advertising is the power of an idea multiplied.

When You Send Out Sales Letters

check over the following points to see if our special facilities may be of service to you in your Direct Mail Advertising.

Mailing Lists: Are yours up-to-date? This book will be of help in Norfolk, but remember that as Directory Publishers we have access to the latest information from all over the country, and it needs only a statement of your problem to learn if we can help you.

Multigraphing: This should not be done by amateurs, or bought on a price basis if results are expected. We will gladly send samples of our regular work, showing fill-ins, signature work and features that make a really good letter worth the reasonable cost of producing it.

Service: This word may mean anything, from attending to the mailing of a single piece to the planning and execution of an entire Direct-by-Mail Campaign. It is our effort to intelligently comprehend the needs and wishes of each customer, so that this element of "Service" will mean satisfaction in every order. In other words, "Service" where and when YOU want it.

Growth of this branch of our work has required enlarged office space, where inquiries in person or by letter will be welcomed, or we may be reached by

BUYERS' DIRECTORY

This section of the Directory includes many catalog-advertisements of the leading manufacturing, business and professional interests of Norfolk and Portsmouth. They have been carefully grouped by departments and are indexed under classified headings and otherwise in various parts of the Directory. A casual perusal of these catalog-advertisements will picture many interesting phases of the city's activities. They are not display advertisements, primarily, however, but rather are at its best. The purpose of a Directory is to direct. In bustling seaport cities like Norfolk and Portsmouth, the need for this kind of information readily at hand is very great, and the general appreciation of this need is evidenced by the liberal patronage the City Directory enjoys in many and varied lines of trade

AUTOMOBILE AND MARINE STARTING, LIGHTING, IGNITION

BALL, ROLLER AND THRUST BEARINGS

711 Granby Street

NORFOLK, VA.

Dear Public:

We are qualified and equipped to render highest grade service in all of your automobile starting, lighting, ignition troubles, and will give careful and courteous attention to any work you may send us.

The Philco Diamond Grid Batteries last twice as long as other leading batteries, hence cost only half as much.

That our prices are reasonable and our service prompt and efficient is attested by the rapid growth of our business and thousands of satisfied customers.

If you need a new battery—your old one recharged—a generator, speedometer, horn or battery repaired, your car rewired, or if you want piston rings, bearings, spark plugs, switches, bendix drives or magnetos, please Dial 25588, or a Phenomenally Selective Radio, try a Splitdorf or an Eisemann.

We are at your service.

Building and Loan Associations are the nationally recognized medium for the acquirement of homes. When you buy your home, buy through an association with liberal privileges to the borrower, such as these:

This Association charges no brokerage.

It makes no charge for permission to pay out the balance due at any time.

It gives full credit for all dividends on the borrower's account even if paid out before maturity.

This is a mutual association, and its earnings, after the payment of its regular interest charges on capital (at 6%) and the payment of the expense of operation, are credited as dividends upon the books of its borrowers and stockholders.

The dividends (or amount credited as return interest upon the books of its borrowing stockholders) have at no time during the past twelve years been less than 8 per cent per year. These dividends are declared semi-annually and are compounded.

We lend three-fourths of what we consider the value of the property.

Payments are 40 cents per week on each $100.00 borrowed. This includes principal and interest. Experience has shown that this payment will mature the stock or pay off the loan in nearly exactly six years. But remember, the loan may be paid off at any time without the payment of interest ahead, without additional charge for such privilege, and without forfeiture of dividends. Payments on long term stock are 30 cents per week on each $100.00 borrowed.

Will Your Children Be Left to Strangers?

She had tried to be brave for the children's sake. Yet now they, too, must be taken away---turned over to the untender care of strangers. True, she was still alive---could somehow manage to earn a living. But---her children needed her---Day after day she must leave them motherless. Could your wife, by any chance, come to such a fate---her home broken up---her son deprived of an education---her daughter compelled to go out to work? A plan of the Massachusetts Mutual would assure her a substantial check each month, as long as she lived---would also provide her adequate funds for the education of the children. Interested? From a very complete file of directories and miscellaneous trade books we compile mailing lists of every variety.

LETTERS

Our mechanical equipment enables us to turn out promptly processed letters which will bring results if sent to the proper lists.

FILLING IN LETTERS

This should never be done unless it is handled carefully to insure the proper match. We have competent employees doing just this sort of work and can promise satisfaction.

ADDRESSING ENVELOPES

This is a detail of vital importance and we can give you prompt delivery and careful work.

COMPLETE MAILING SERVICE

In short, we are prepared to furnish lists, process letters, address envelopes and handle all details connected with mailing.

A DIRECTORY LIBRARY MAINTAINED IN NEARLY EVERY CITY
IN UNITED STATES AND CANADA

You pay only for a local advertisement, But you get national circulation

In hundreds of cities there are Directory Libraries—where Directories may be found for practically every city in the United States and Canada.

There's one here—and it is surprising to see how often it is used.

Out in San Francisco—or in Boston or Denver some one may want to find your name or your address or the name or address of some one in your line of business. They use their local Directory Library and find you!

There is no extra charge for this—either for the circulation or the use of the Library.

Your advertisement in the City Directory is national. Any one classification may secure the largest order and the best customer any or every day in the year, and its omission may lose a large order at any time.

The Association of North American Directory Publishers is composed of reputable City Directory Publishers, organized for the general advancement of the Directory business. Any person, corporation or firm engaged in business as owner and publisher of a City Directory in the United States or Canada, who shall qualify as competent to gather information and compile a City Directory and furnish satisfactory references, is eligible to membership.

The objects of the Association are:

First: The advancement of the Directory business and the improvement of Directories by the interchange of ideas and the exchange of experienced employees.

Second: To provide protection to the public against fraudulent advertising schemes which operate under the name of Directories, and to drive unprincipled promoters of the same out of business.

Third: To provide permanent and profitable employment to competent, industrious and honest Directory canvassers and compilers.

Fourth: For the mutual protection and advancement of the established and prospective interests of all who may become members, by personal advice and assistance of members as may be mutually satisfactory, desirable or advisable, and by such other means as may, from time to time, be shown to be wise, proper and lawful.

All members of this Association have subscribed to the following

STANDARDS OF PRACTICE

1. To consider, first, the interest of the user of the book.
2. To subscribe to and work for truth, honesty and accuracy in all departments.
3. To avoid confusing duplication of listings, endeavoring to classify every concern under such headings as best describe it, and to treat additional listings as advertising, to be charged for at regular rates.
4. To increase public knowledge of what directories and reference media contain; to study public needs and make directories and reference media to supply them; to revise and standardize methods and classifications so that what is wanted may be most easily found, and the directory and reference media be made to serve their fullest use as business and social reference books and directories of buyer to seller and seller to his market.
5. To decline any advertisement which has a tendency to mislead or which does not conform to business integrity.
6. To solicit subscriptions and advertising solely upon the merits of the publication.
7. To avoid misrepresentation by statement or inference regarding circulation, placing the test of reference publicly upon its accessibility to seekers as well as on the number of copies circulated.
8. To co-operate with approved organizations and individuals engaged in creative advertising work.
9. To avoid unfair competition.
10. To determine what is the highest and largest function of directories and reference media in public service and then to strive in every legitimate way to promote that function.

$100.00 REWARD will be paid by the Association for the arrest and conviction of any person or persons engaged in publishing, collecting or canvassing for any fraudulent or "fake" Directory.
